Recent developments

India is the second footwear producer in the world, after China. There are several important footwear production centres around the country: the areas of Delhi-Agra and Chennai-Ambur are the most important. Mumbai, in the west of the country and Kolkota, in the east are also relevant. India's exports are dominated by leather footwear directed at the major European and American markets, which allows the country to achieve an average price above what is common in many other Asian producers. Imports to India come mainly from China and other Asian countries. Data for 2011 was not available at the moment of producing this yearbook.
